The CLIMBING COURVATELS

By Edward W. Townsend

Author of "Chimmie Fadden"

The Courvatels are performers on the variety stage who determine to enter the most exclusive society—and they do it. Then the fun begins.

A brand new kind of society novel which will provoke the chuckles and warm the heart of every one capable of laughing or feeling. The plot is highly unusual, the characters are lovable and amusing, the style of the book (including its slang) is delicious, and its appearance handsome.

Eight fine illustrations in black and red. Handsome cloth cover.

MISS MINERVA and WILLIAM GREEN HILL

By FRANCES BOYD CALHOUN

A LITTLE masterpiece of humor and sentiment

That is the way we should describe this delightful story of the South by a new writer with a positive talent for child dialogue and a touch in describing killingly funny situations that no American humorist has surpassed.

Any reader who has made friends with Miss Minerva and the Major, fallen in love with William, and laughed over bad Jimmy, Sam Lamb and Mr. Algernon Jones (not forgetting Sanctified Sophy and Aunt Blue-Gum Tempy) — will yearn to introduce them to others.

NOTES IN SEASON.

REILLY & BRITTON call special attention to "Miss Minerva and William Green Hill," by Frances Boyd Calhoun, a story of the South, written with much humor and understanding of children.

SMALL, MAYNARD & Co. announce for February 27th their big mid-season novel, "The Web of the Golden Spider," by Frederick Orin Bartlett, a dramatic story in which love and avarice are the ruling passions.

J. B. LIPPINCOTT COMPANY announce that they have added "Benham's Book of Quotations" to their already comprehensive Readers' Reference Library. This makes a total of fifteen volumes in this set of valuable handbooks. "Benham's Book of Quotations" is the latest and among the most complete books of quotations now on the market.

FREDERICK A. STOKES COMPANY have just ready, "The Climbing Courvatels," by Edward W. Townsend, of "Chimmie Fadden" fame. The Courvatels, after making a fortune as prestidigitators on the variety stage, resolve to retire, build a theatre and struggle boldly into good society as Mr. and Mrs. Richard Courtney. The book is original and amusing and the ex-prestidigitators are truly lovable.

LAIRD & LEE call special attention to "The Standard Domestic Science Cook-Book," which contains over 1400 recipes, 536 pages, 32 departments, 135 special drawings, and 16 full-page color plates. It is a gift edition and bound in full leather. It gives information on cooking, judicious buying, catering for the sick, household management, needlework, the management of the laundry, etc.

G. P. PUTNAM'S SONS have ready "The Lincoln Tribute Book," edited by Horatio Sheafe Krans, which includes Roine's full-face Lincoln medal, but must not be confused with The Lincoln Centennial Medal," published some weeks back. The publishers bring out the present cheaper work that it may be specially used for souvenirs for the coming Lincoln commemorative exercises.

HARPER & BROTHERS have just ready "Mad Barbara," by Warwick Deeping, a tale of love and lawlessness of the day of Charles II., well worked up to a most exciting conclusion; and "Sir Walter Raleigh," Frederick A. Ober's interesting addition to the Heroes of American History series. Later in the month the house will have "The Actress," by Louise Clesser Hale, the story of a New York girl who gives up her lover for the stage; "The Gorgeous Borgia," by Justin Huntly McCarthy, the story of the terror and tyrant of Rome in the 15th century; and a reprint of H. G. Wells' marvellously popular books, "Thirty Strange Stories" and "The War of the Worlds."

LITTLE, BROWN & COMPANY on February 12 will add their contribution to the Lincoln celebration in the form of a stirring narrative poem by Mary E. Waller, author of "The Wood-Carver of 'Lynpus," entitled "Our Berny." The poem is founded on historical fact, and dedicated to the people of Illinois and Kentucky in memory of Abraham Lincoln. The action takes place in a little Vermont village in the early spring of 1865; and the story is a moving tribute to the great and noble nature of Lincoln the man and President. In itself the poem shows unusual literary merit, and is one of the finest works issued to commemorate the memory of this beloved President.

Lucia Grimson, young, beautiful, clever, full of life and vitality, and ardent longings for all the good things of the world, is doomed to live with two dull elderly maiden aunts, in a dull English town. Selfish and determined to make her way in the great world at any cost, she succeeds by clever intrigue in winning the rich Lord Brayton as a husband. In a few years she is a leader in London society. But her downfall comes when she sets herself to gain the love of her best friend's husband. Her punishment is quick and remorseless. By the author of "Sheaves," etc.

Dewitt, D: Miller. The assassination of Abraham Lincoln and its expiation. N. Y., Macmillan, 1909. c. 11+302 p. O. cl., $2.25.

The author of "The impeachment and trial of President Johnson" has most industriously and impartially sifted the many stories and testimony extant as to the assassination of Lincoln—his aim being to show that it was no widespread conspiracy of the South, but a personal matter with Wilkes Booth, resulting from his vanity and unbalanced character. The authorities he has particularly examined and compared—all sworn testimony—were the Conspiracy Trial, the Trial of John H. Surratt and the Impeachment Investigation.

Eaton, Isabel Graham. By the shores of Arcady; decorations by W. G. Kriehoff. N. Y., Outing Publishing Co., 1908, [1909.] c. 13+325 p. D. cl., $1.25.

A summer romance is prettily set forth in this pretty book, seemingly told by a tired young woman artist, who seeks rest in an out-of-the-way corner of Maine among plain working people. She sets up her easel in a barn and finds subjects among the types around her. They all have histories, which she makes most interesting. One of her models is a foreign looking little boy, who she discovers has been kidnapped and whom she returns to his family. There are also two romances, one of which is her own.

Author is professor of homiletics and pastoral care in the Divinity School of the Protestant Episcopal Church in Philadelphia. The work is not a constructive statement of the doctrine of the atonement; it is a critical and historical study of the claim that the Reformation dogma is the Catholic doctrine.

Foster, Rob. F. Auction bridge; containing the official laws of auction bridge as adopted and used by the leading clubs. N. Y., Frederick A. Stokes Co., [1909.] c. '08. 128 p. il. diagrs., 12°, cl., $1 net.

Auction bridge is now supplanting bridge in the principal clubs, and is considered by many as much better than bridge as bridge is better than whist. The new game introduces the bidding element, and thus combines the fascination of euchre with that of bridge. This is a complete manual of the game, and is the only one which contains the authorized rules as adopted by the best clubs.

Harris, Joel Chandler. The bishop and the boogerman; being the story of a little truly-girl, who grew up; her mysterious companion; her crabbed old uncle; the wish-whish woods; a very civil engineer, and Mr. Billy Sanders, the sage of Shady Dale; drawings by Charlotte Harding. N. Y., Doubleday, Page & Co., 1909. c. '07. 184 p. D. cl., $1 net.

Little Adelaide, who is the "truly-girl" of this story, goes to live with her uncle Jonas at Shady Dale, Georgia. Her uncle seems a cross old fellow, but he has a warm heart and is fair and just. The little girl is full of whimsical fancies and invents many odd plays, most of her playmates being "grown-ups," who are devoted to her. Some of the episodes are rather above the comprehension of young people, but the manner of telling them is most amusing. As has been said of the book, the last from the pen of "Uncle Remus," it appeals to "young folks of all ages."

Harry, Jos. E. A question of divination. (Medea 240.) Cin., University of Cincinnati

All that the writer claims to attempt to do in his treatise is to analyze composition, as far as it is of moment to portrait photography, and to come down to the few fundamental laws which underlie all portrait composition, those which every photographer should know. There are chapters on: the placing of the head; the profile view; full-face and three-quarter view; the management of hands; standing positions; sitting positions; backgrounds; arrangement of groups; tone and values; light effects. Each chapter is illustrated with three plates, each containing 4 or 5 illustrated examples.

From 1898 to 1905, in the course of six expeditions, the writer visited nearly all the Indian tribes in southwestern United States (exclusive of California) and in northwestern Mexico. These expeditions were made primarily in the interest of physical anthropology, but, as a physician, the writer had exceptional opportunities for acquiring information of a physiological and medical nature. The results of his observations, accompanied by data the accuracy of which seems clearly established, and including various relevant tests and measurements are presented in this volume.

A musical novel with scene laid in Leipsic among the foreign students learning various musical instruments and voice culture under different typical teachers. The hero is an enthusiastic young Englishman, deeply in earnest about his work. His love story has great influence on his artistic career. The author has evidently studied the conditions of Leipsic as an art centre at first hand.

Roberts, Morley. David Bran; with a frontispiece in colour by Frank T. Merrill. Bost., L. C. Page & Co., 1909. c. '08. 6+420 p. D. cl., $1.50.

A fishing village on the British coast, with its primitive inhabitants, is the scene of a remarkable love story. The hero, whose name gives title to the book, loves two women, both equally well. One is very fair, the other a dark beauty, but he is happy with either when the other is away. His mother hates the dark girl, and persuades him to marry the fair one. The narrative nearly ends with a tragedy—but all bitterness is finally conquered and the two women become loving friends.

The author is the Hon. Canon of Ripon and editorial secretary of the S. P. G. "This little book," he says, "has been rewritten and issued in cheap form in the hope that it may help to recall the underlying meaning of Christian worship to some of those to whom the inside of a church or chapel is not familiar, and may render the worship of some to whom it is familiar more effective."

"This little book is offered to the engineering profession with the hope that it may be of practical help in the rapid and accurate calculation of transmission lines. Its existence is the outcome of the belief that this field is in part barren. Its chief mission is to substitute a direct solution for the trial method which was formerly a necessary evil. The arrangement of the formulas, tables and text has been dictated solely by the needs of the rapid worker."—Preface.

The author does not entertain the least idea that this book should take the place of the family physician when the services of a physician are needed. But there are many conditions and circumstances in every home under which a reliable book on health and disease is indispensable and greatly supplements the services of the physician. Very little is said in this treatise about the use of drugs in the treatment of diseases. The author is a member of the American Medical Association and the Chicago Medical Society, and superintendent of the North Yakima (Wash.) Sanitarium.

In preparing the second edition of the guide the compiler has been assisted by C. Harper Walsh, of the Copyright Office, Library of Congress. Under his supervision the Guide has been checked by the card index of current periodicals received by the Library of Congress and by the "Handbook of learned societies," to be issued soon by the Carnegie Institution. From the former list 1146 new titles were added; from the latter 210; from other sources 910, making the total number of additions to the present edition of the Guide 2266 titles. It now contains more than 10,000 titles. It has been found impractical to issue an edition of the Guide every year. It is hoped to issue a supplement in 1909 giving new titles and noting those which have either suspended publication or have changed their names. The next edition, therefore, may be expected in the fall of 1910. Mr. Severance is Librarian, University of Missouri.

The Publishers' Weekly.

FOUNDED BY F. LEYPOLDT.

FEBRUARY 6, 1909.

The editor does not hold himself responsible for the views expressed in contributed articles or communications.

All matter for advertising pages should reach this office not later than Wednesday noon, to insure insertion in the same week's issue.

Publishers are requested to furnish title-page proofs and advance information of books forthcoming, both for entry in the lists and for descriptive mention. An early copy of each book published should be forwarded, as it is of the utmost importance that the entries of books be made as promptly and as perfectly as possible. In many cases booksellers and librarians depend on the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY solely for their information. The Record of New Publications of the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY is the material of the "American Catalog," and so forms the basis of trade bibliography in the United States.

"I hold every man a debtor to his profession, from the which, as men do of course seek to receive countenance and profit, so ought they of duty to endeavor themselves by way of amends to be a help and an ornament thereunto."—LORD BACON.

ON THE COST OF DOING BUSINESS.

It is a fact that a large proportion of business men and business concerns do not really know the cost of doing business. This is partly because the figures are often difficult to obtain and partly because not enough emphasis is placed by most business men on the importance of keeping their business in hand during the year as well as tying-up the threads at the year's end. It is not easy from month to month to follow the course of any business and know exactly how it stands. This is particularly true in a business which depends largely upon the inventory of stock in hand for an actual account, which cannot be made oftener than once a year, at the most half-yearly, without undue expense of time and money. This is probably most of all true in the retail book trade, where so many items have to be handled. The most practicable thing that can be done in such cases is to keep a running inventory estimate by balancing sales and purchases from month to month with the yearly inventory, and this every bookseller should try to do.

The publisher has usually better machinery for following the actual cost of doing business than has the bookseller, but even then the problem is a difficult one. Oftentimes a publisher, the young publisher in especial, is unwilling to look the facts in the face and recognize that a book which seems to have paid its cost has really not paid its expenses. The general charges on a publishing business are considerable and each book must bear a share or the business must face ruin in the end. One or two big sellers are not sufficient to cover the cost of doing business on the rest of a list when the other books are just over the margin of specific cost.

We are concerned at this writing, however, more with the cost of handling a retail book business, as there is much discussion of this question at the present moment. It is worth while to bring into the discussion an important fact from the experience of libraries, many of which have found on careful analysis that the cost of putting a book on the shelves ready for public use (including the selection, ordering, receiving, accessioning, cataloging, shelf-listing, labeling, etc.) is not far, one way or the other, from 30 cents a volume. The average cost of volumes purchased by libraries is probably not far from the range of 80 cents to $1 per volume. The cost of preparing a book for what may be called library sale, that is, its circulation among the public, is just roughly from 30 to 40 per cent. of its cost. This is a startling fact which a librarian has to face.

Now the cost of selling a book over the counter in a retail book store covers almost as many items. These are costs of selection, ordering, receiving and selling; costs of rent, heating and lighting, clerk-hire, etc.; and, finally, cost by loss of the books that do not sell. A bookseller should be careful to get before him the facts, not only as to the total costs of the year of his business, but the cost per volume, which we fancy would surprise most booksellers when they look the figure in the face. Especially in fiction the cost of a live book in its proportion to the slow or dead books is very considerable, and this is an element of cost which is almost peculiar to the book business, at least in its proportion to actual sales. It would be valuable to the trade if experienced booksellers would give to their fellow-craftsmen, through our columns, specific illustrations of their own experience. Rents for book stores vary from a few hundred dollars up to many thousands of dollars—in one case to thirty thousand dollars—in the large centres, and this item alone figured on the number of volumes sold, keeping in mind the proportion of big sales to sales of stationery and other articles, will in itself be found very significant. One of the good things to do this year would be to get as accurate a notion of the exact cost of selling a book as can be figured out, and we commend this suggestion to our friends of the retail trade.

A NEW THOREAU "WALDEN."

The Bibliophile Society, organized nine years ago in Boston to publish artistic books and rare manuscripts, had its annual dinner at the Hotel Astor on February 2.

Before the seventy-five book lovers present dined they inspected the proof sheets of the original manuscript of Thoreau's "Walden," which came into the Society's possession in a remarkable way and which it is about to publish. According to Henry H. Harper, the Society's president, "Walden," as Thoreau originally wrote it, has never been published before.

An inspection of the manuscript now in the possession of the Society shows that when the original manuscript was turned over to the publishers by the author, they had cut it unmercifully. All published editions of "Walden," according to Mr. Harper, therefore, lack 12,000 words of those in Thoreau's original essay.

The manuscript, according to Mr. Harper, was willed by Thoreau to Harrison Blake of Worcester, who, not knowing its value, gave the trunk and its contents to E. H. Russell of Worcester. According to Mr. Harper, Mr. Russell, in turn, failed to appreciate the value of the trunk, and let it pass into Mr. Bixby's hands. The society will soon place this, the true "Walden," in printed form, before the Thoreau-loving public.

Among the speakers at the evening banquet were Supreme Court Justice Dowling, John C. Tomlinson, the society's venerable vice-president and editor of The Boston Transcript, Charles E. Hurd, L. E. Holden and Senator Thomas F. Grady. S. V. Hoffman, Darwin P. Kingsley and Supreme Court Justice Dayton were also among the diners.

BOBBS-MERRILL COMPANY SELL RETAIL BUSINESS.

THE BOBBS-MERRILL COMPANY have sold their retail book and stationery business in Indianapolis to W. K. Stewart, who has been connected with the business for the last five years, latterly as sales manager of the publication department and member of the firm.

The constantly increasing publication business, which includes a very large line of law books, as well as general literature and particularly popular fiction, has required more and more the personal attention of the heads of the organization in such measure that it became desirable for them to be relieved of the details of the retail business. To this business Mr. Stewart brings a wide acquaintance with the retail book and stationery business over the United States, industry, energy and enthusiasm in a marked degree; and it is the hope both of The Bobbs-Merrill Company and Mr. Stewart that the retail business under his direction will become one of the really model retail book stores of the country.

An interesting bit of family history is connected with this transaction. In 1838 the Merrill name was nailed over the front of a retail bookstore in Indianapolis. The business was established by Samuel Merrill, then treasurer of state, and grandfather to the present Merrill of the firm. That name has been continuously identified with the book business in Indianapolis from that day to this, passing from Samuel Merrill, treasurer of state, to Colonel Samuel Merrill, his son, and to Charles W. Merrill, his grandson. In 1853 William Stewart came to Indianapolis from Hagerstown, Maryland, and established a little bookstore in Washington Street. He took into partnership with him Silas T. Bowen, who was then a teacher in the Indianapolis schools. In 1859, on the death of William Stewart, the Stewart interests went into the hands of his son, Charles G. Stewart, and the firm became Bowen, Stewart & Company. In 1885 the Merrill book establishment, which was then a wholesale and retail book and stationery concern absorbed the Bowen, Stewart establishment, and subsequently the firm entered into the publication of law books, miscellaneous books, general literature, and the firm became The Bowen-Merrill Company and afterwards The Bobbs-Merrill Company.

This name in the last few years has been identified in a special way with two lines of publications which are not very closely connected with each other. The first is law text books, in which line the firm stands at the head of its class in the United States, and the second is popular fiction, in which its record is generally known.

Five years ago, the grandson of William Stewart was employed by The Bobbs-Merrill Company. Subsequently he went on the road and became sales manager of the publishing department. Now he has bought for himself the retail department of a business which his grandfather established, and with which he takes a peculiar pride in again having the Stewart name identified.

While the retail business will be run as The Bobbs-Merrill Bookstore, it will be owned solely and entirely by W. K. Stewart, and will be managed independently of the publishing house in every particular.

COMMUNICATIONS.

NET FICTION.

To the Editor of The Publishers' Weekly.

GENTLEMEN: We congratulate E. P. Dutton & Company upon having put out Mrs. de la Pasture's new novel "Catherine's Child" under ideal conditions as viewed from the standpoint of the bookseller, and which we hope will prove practical and profitable to publishers.

This author's works are now so favorably known that it seems as if all of her future books might well be published at net prices, which is one feasible method of demonstrating to the reading public that these books are in every way superior to the great mass of fiction upon the market.

The insertion of the slip in each copy—stating that the book is supplied to booksellers under conditions which justify them in asking full price for it—is a neat climax to the whole method.

You may be sure we shall push net fiction to the limit. We hope we may be informed at some future time as to whether this experiment has proved successful and satisfactory.

Most truly yours,
A. B. FIFIELD.

NEW YORK CITY.

LOOK OUT FOR THIS SWINDLER.

To the Editor of The Publishers' Weekly.

DEAR SIR: Will you kindly give publicity in your columns to the fact that a swindler, whom I have not the satisfaction of knowing, has recently borrowed my name for the purpose of imposing upon New York publishers. From the publisher of the Circle Magazine, Mr. Eugene Twing, he requested by telephone the loan of a "Standard Dictionary," having casually introduced himself as "Ellery Sedgwick of the Atlantic Monthly," staying at the Players' Club, and needing the work for immediate reference. Subsequently, he sent a messenger for the dictionary, with a note written on Players' Club paper and bearing what purported to be my signature.

Second-hand dictionaries seem rather mediocre graft, but the gentleman may aim higher next time.

Yours respectfully,
ELLERY SEDGWICK.

Boston, January 29, 1909.

OBITUARY NOTES.

AMOS MERCHANT ENSIGN, city editor of the New York Tribune, died on Wednesday, February 3, at the Seney Hospital, Brooklyn, after an operation. Mr. Ensign was born at Walton, Delaware Co., June 15, 1851. He was a graduate of Cornell University. He came to the Tribune in 1876, and became city editor in 1907.

LYMAN B. BROOKS, president of the Lyman B. Brooks Company, commercial stationers and lithographers, died at 151 Franklin Street, Boston, on Friday, January 15. Mr. Brooks was born at Salem, Mass., in October, 1830. In his early days he and his brother worked for John P. Jewett, the Salem publisher, who achieved fame and fortune as the publisher of "Uncle Tom's Cabin." Later the Brooks brothers succeeded to this business. The firm became a corporation last year and Mr. Brooks was its president.

JOHN GILMER SPEED, the well-known author and journalist, committed suicide on Tuesday, February 5, by shooting himself in his boarding house at Mendham, N. J. Mr. Speed, a grand-nephew of the poet Keats, was born in Louisville, Ky., September 21, 1853. He took a degree as civil engineer, and for years followed this profession, but his taste was for literature. He came to New York and entered the newspaper world. In 1879 he became managing editor of the New York World, and held the place till 1883; then travelled five years in Europe. For two years he was editor of the American Magazine, and for another two years of Leslie's Weekly. He wrote constantly for all the better magazines; wrote a "Life of Keats," and edited a volume of "Keats's Poems." The titles of some of his books and stories include "A Fall River Incident," "The Gilmer in America," "A Deal in Denver," "The Horse in America," etc. Recently Mr. Speed's health had failed, and he had been under great nervous depression.

MARTHA FINLEY, beloved by two generations under her pseudonym of "Martha Farquharson," died on January 30 at her home in Elkton, Md., at the age of eighty-one. Miss Finley was born at Chillicothe, Ohio, April 26, 1828. Her girlhood was spent at South Bend, Ind.; for a time she taught school; later took up newspaper work in Philadelphia, writing "Sunday-school Books" in her spare time. In 1868 she first introduced "Elsie Dinsmore" to the school-girl world. The book had an immediate success, and for twenty years the "Elsie Books" were a valuable asset to the Dodd, Mead & Co. house. Elsie was real to our children and grandchildren, and her troubles were wept over and her virtues emulated while she grew from little girl to grandmother and great-grandmother. "Elsie's Winter Trip," published in 1902, proved to be the last of this beloved heroine. Another series on the same order, known as the "Mildred Books," did not gain the popularity of the "Elsie Books."

NOTES ON AUTHORS.

STANLEY LANE-POOLE has written a new chapter, dealing with recent events, and the present statistics for his volume on "Turkey," in the Story of the Nations Series, which will appear in the new edition of the book now ready, and William Miller has also added a new chapter, and new illustrations have been furnished for the new edition of the volume on "The Balkans" in the same series.

THEODORE WATTS-DUNTON is working hard in many separate directions. He is reported to be preparing a volume of "Reminiscences of Dante Gabriel Rossetti and William Morris at Kelmscott"; "The Renaissance of Wonder," a volume giving a critical account of the romantic movement; a book discussing "Shakespeare's Adequacy to the Coming Generation," and a new novel of which the title is not yet definitely settled.

PERSONAL NOTES.

LOUIS WEIL, formerly with the H. B. Claffin Company and the A. W. Wessels Company, will hereafter represent the Cupples & Leon Company.

HALLAM MURRAY has retired from the well-known house in Albemarle Street, and now the only two Murrays in the firm are John Murray and John Murray, Jr.

We are glad to hear that Edward Marston, the doyen of the publishing world, who has been laid aside by a serious illness, is now recovering, and we hope that he may soon regain his wonted health and strength.

S. G. RAINS, president of the Lamb Publishing Co., is just leaving for the West. He will show samples of their large line of Standard Sets and limited editions, and a great variety of de luxe editions of which the price is wonderfully low.

BUSINESS NOTES.

CHEYENNE, WYO.—The book and stationery store of M. J. Barry was burned out on December 29. The fire was caused by gasoline used in charging the lighting system installed in the store. The proprietor was so badly burned about the hands and face that he was obliged to undergo medical treatment.

EL PASO, TEX.—The Gammel Publishing Co. has purchased the Andrews bookstore on San Antonio Street, that city.

KLAMATH FALLS, ORE.—D. W. Day has recently opened a new book and stationery establishment here.

LYNCHBURG, VA.—W. D. Ryan Co. have suffered total loss by fire. Their insurance of $20,000 by no means covers the damage.

NEW YORK CITY.—The Tandy-Thomas Company, successors to Francis D. Tandy Co., 38 East 21st Street, call attention to the change of style in their firm name. Mr. Thomas, the new member, was for a number of years manager for Doubleday, Page & Co. The firm expects to expand its business in all branches of publishing.

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

C. H. DOSCHER & Co., New York, have just ready "The Pest," by W. Teignmouth Shore, a novel of original interest.

D. C. HEATH & Co. have just about ready a collection of "Spanish Anecdotes," selected and edited with questions in Spanish upon the text, notes and vocabulary by Professor W. F. Giese and C. D. Cool, of the University of Wisconsin. It offers easy reading for beginners in Spanish.

LOTHROP, LEE & SHEPARD Co. will issue February 15 a revised and greatly enlarged edition of William Hickox's "Correspondence Manual," based upon what he knew by experience to be the need of his shorthand students; and "Steps Along the Path," an important contribution to metaphysics by Katherine H. Newcomb, which has been eagerly awaited but unavoidably detained.

THE Directors of the Old South Work have reprinted Noah Webster's "History of the United States," taken from his "American Selection of Lessons in Reading and Speaking," published in 1790. It occupies less than twenty-one pages, but even to-day it is an uncommonly good skeleton history and a good manual for ready reference. Another of the Noah Webster leaflets is "The Reform of Spelling."

GEORGE WAHR, Ann Arbor, Mich., has ready for delivery the second edition of "A Guide to the Current Periodicals and Serials of the United States and Canada," compiled by Henry Orman Severance, librarian of the University of Missouri, and Charles Harper Walsh. Library of Congress, giving a list of over 10,000 periodicals published in the United States and Canada, arranged first in an alphabetical and then in a classified list.

DANA ESTES & Co. will issue immediately two novels, one by Gilbert Wales, entitled "Hilary Thornton," and the other entitled "To a Nun Confessed," by Miss Irene Os-good. The latter is a series of letters said to have been found in one of the French convents from which the nuns were forced by the French government. The "Letters and Journals of Samuel Gridley Howe" is in the process of printing and will soon be published.

HOUGHTON MIFFLIN COMPANY are preparing "A Lincoln Conscript," by Homer Greene, a prominent Pennsylvania lawyer, which opens with the battle of Gettysburg and gives an important part to the great war President; "The Story of Thyra," by Alice Brown, new to all, for it has had no serial publication; "Ancestry of Abraham Lincoln," by J. Henry Lea and J. R. Hutchinson; and "Dragon's Blood," by Henry Milner Rideout, which has its scene laid in China.

HENRY ALTEMUS Co. have almost ready "We Have With Us To-night," by Samuel Blythe, which is an amusing take-off upon the formal dinner, although not necessarily one whereat epigrams have been polished beneath the eyelids. This skit will be enjoyed by every one familiar with the traditions of such occasions. A book venture based upon the recent wonderful exhibition of the utility of the wireless telegraph is also in preparation by these publishers.

G. LEMALLIER, Paris, has just issued his catalogue of about 3000 lots of ancient and modern books, comprising illustrated works of the 15th, 16th, 17th and 18th centuries in handsome bindings; Costumes civil and military of every land; Modern books with marginal decorations in water colors; English works with black and colored illustrations; Views of Switzerland; Albums and caricatures by Daumier, Gavarni, Grandville, Goya and others; and fine works on Botany and other scientific subjects.

THE BAKER & TAYLOR Co. published on Saturday "The Reorganization of Our Colleges," by Clarence F. Birdseye, author of "Individual Training in Our Colleges." The aim of the book is to expose unbusinesslike conditions in the administration of our colleges and to suggest remedies. They will also have ready shortly two new volumes in the Child's Guide Series, "Child's Guide to American History," by Henry W. Elson, and "A Child's Guide to Reading," by John Macy, author of "Poe" in the Beacon Series.

E. P. DUTTON & Co. will publish "The Magic Casement," a book of the best fairy verse in the English language, brought together by Alfred Noyes, under the pretty title taken from Keats. The book will give us in a single volume such treasures as Walter Scott's ballads of Gramarye, Shakespeare's Greenwood scenes, songs of Celtic spirits from Fiona Macleod, sea-maidens from Tennyson and poems of fairyland from Hood, Beddoes, Kipling, Drayton, Keats, Shelley, Christina Rossetti and other spirits who have gazed through "magic casements opening on

MOFFAT, YARD & COMPANY have almost ready "The Ring and the Man," by Cyrus Townsend Brady, which has had a most successful run as a serial. The hero is a young commercial giant who takes up reform movements and finds himself opposed by the father of the girl he is wooing. The house has also nearly ready "School Sermons," by Henry Augustus Coit; "Nerves," a brief, popular review of nerve diseases and their treatment, by Dr. Alfred T. Schofield; and a revised edition of "Wireless Telegraphy and Wireless Telephony," by Professor Kennelly, who has embodied the last discoveries made since his fine book was published in 1906.

B. W. DODGE & Co. announce for February 20 "The Journal of a Neglected Wife," by Mabel Herbert Urner, a psychological document in the form of fiction, and another contribution to the matrimonial-problem novels. Also, "Improper Prue," a breezy story of a bewitching heroine who is not always sufficiently thoughtful of Mrs. Grundy, will be published this spring, besides a book of interesting reminiscences by Mike Donovan, who is celebrated as the "grand old man" of boxing in this country, entitled "The Roosevelt That I Know and Recollections of Some Great American Fighting Men," in which a hitherto little known and very human side of the President is revealed.

FUNK & WAGNALLS Co. will bring out another book by the Rev. Charles Wagner, "The Home of the Soul," which should prove as popular as its forerunners. This book is the first author has published since he left his Alsatian home to establish an institution for religious culture in Paris. It is made up principally from sermons delivered to his Parisian congregations. The same firm will also publish during the spring a volume of William Jennings Bryan's speeches, which will contain a biographical introduction by Mary Baird Bryan, his wife. No one interested in politics, whether a supporter of Mr. Taft's or Mr. Bryan's principles, can fail to be interested in this forthcoming volume.

GEORGE W. JACOBS & Co. will publish in the late spring or early summer "How to Live on a Small Income," by Mrs. Emma Churchman Hewitt, former associate editor of The Ladies' Home Journal. The question of the selection of a home for the family whose resources are limited is considered, and the furnishing and care of the house discussed. Many useful suggestions of "how to economize" are included, with discussions on dressing, shopping, marketing and much valuable information for the "tidy housewife." A work by W. Lawler Wilson, "The Menace of Socialism," will also be soon published. Its author has taken a prominent part in the campaign against socialism in England, and forecasts in this book a serious outbreak of social revolution within the next three or four years.

THE MACMILLAN COMPANY have just ready "The Assassination of Abraham Lincoln and Its Expiation," by David Miller De Witt, the judicial author of "The Impeachment of Andrew Johnson," who has again written a book to be studied by scholars for all time; and "Towards Social Reform," by Canon Barnett, the successful English preacher and social worker. The house has in preparation several new novels for spring publication: "The Romance of a Plain Man," a story of Virginia, by Ellen Glasgow; "Poppea of the Post Office," by Mrs. Mabel Osgood Wright; "The Straw," by Rina Ramsay; "The White Sister," by Marion Crawford; "The Three Brothers," by Eden Phillpotts; and "Jumbo," by Algernon Blackwood, whose "John Silence" made such lasting impression on the fiction reading public.

LITTLE, BROWN & Co. will publish on February 13th "The Bridge Builders," by Anna Chapin Ray. The building and collapse of the huge cantilever bridge at Quebec, an undertaking of absorbing interest in itself, figures as an important factor in this romance. Miss Ray pays the engineers in charge of the construction a pretty compliment in the dedication of her new book, which reads as follows: "To those master builders who, their courage unshaken by disaster to the old bridge, are already looking forward to an active part in fashioning the new." On the same date these publishers will also bring out a novel by Margaret L. Knapp, who takes her title, "But Still a Man," from Pope's famous line, "A minister—but still a man." The defeats and victories of a young minister in his first parish form the basis for this simple and convincing study in human life.

G. P. PUTNAM'S SONS will publish during February "The Great Lakes," by James Oliver Curwood, a wonderful story of the fresh water seas, appealing to the business man by its wonderful facts and to the general reader by its interest and beauty; "The Century of the Child," by Ellen Key, which has already gone through twenty editions in Germany; and "The Resemblance, and Other Stories," by Clare Benedict; "The Government of American Cities," by Horace E. Deming, chairman of the Executive Committee of the National Municipal League. The publishers have sold the entire edition of the Silver edition of "The Lincoln Centennial Medal," limited to 100 signed copies, in which the famous Roiné medal appears in silver instead of bronze. On February 12 the dies of the medal will be cancelled, and the medal will be deposited in the collection of the American Numismatic Society.

DUFFIELD & Co. have a long list of good fiction to be published in March and April. During February they will publish "Christopher Hibbault, Roadmaker," by Margaret Bryant; "Rachel Sorian," by Mrs. Henry Dudeney; "Idolatry," by Alice Perrin; "Syrinx," an unconventional novel by Lawrence Worth, a new author; and two new additions to the New Mediæval Library—"Early English Romances of Love" and "Early English Romances of Friendship." In March they promise "The Cuckoo's Nest," a story of smart Americans at Monte Carlo, by Martha Gilbert Dickinson; "Houses of "Glass," short stories of Paris, by Helen Mackay; "The Gospel of Anarchy," sociological studies, by Hutchins Hapgood, and "France's Pathway," dealing with the love romances of Molière, by his biographer, H. C. Chatfield-Taylor.

L. C. PAGE & Co. will publish during February "David Bran," by Morley Roberts, in which the "triangle" base of fiction—one man and two women—provides the plot, and a tale of mistaken identity by Frederic Van Rensselaer Dey, entitled "A Gentleman of Quality." In March they will bring out another story by the popular author, Burton E. Stevenson, "The Quest for the Rose of Sharon," a mystery story quite equal to the "Marathon Mystery" and "The Holladay Case." "The Further Adventures of Quincy Adams Sawyer," by Charles Felton Pidgin, a sequel to his first great success, "Quincy Adams Sawyer," and a romantic story by Caroline Atwater Mason, "The Mystery of Miss Moth," will be brought out in April. They also announce new non-fiction publications in "Motor Tours in Wales and the Border Counties," by Mrs. Rodolph Stawell, a beautiful volume of travel containing about 70 full-page illustrations in duogravure, which will be published this month. Two books of travel will be brought out in March, "The Spell of Italy," by Caroline Atwater Mason, and "From Cairo to the Cataracts," by Blanche M. Carson. In April will be published another book on Italy by Francis Miltoun, entitled "Italian Highways and Byways from a Motor Car."

CASSELL & Co. have leased the premises at 43-45 East 19th Street, vacated by Paul Elder & Co. This is the second increase of space made by this firm in less than two years, an illustration of their growth since they actively re-entered the publishing field here. Their list for the coming year will show several hundred new titles, many of unusual importance. The firm is also arranging to take back the marketing of a number of their publications heretofore issued by American publishers. The "People's Library," the most inexpensive thin paper edition of standard works now issued, will be augmented by the addition of fifty titles. A new series, to be known as "Cassell's Little Classics," is in active preparation. The completion of their "Women of All Nations" is announced. This work has met with unusual favor from the public, and the publishers' enterprise and expense amply rewarded. A serial issue of "Great Pictures in Private Galleries," in color, is also completed. The firm will shortly publish works by Richard Whiteing, author of "No. 5 St. John St.," etc.; Fergus Hume, Katharine Tynan, Headon Hill, Richard Marsh, and a number of other prominent writers. Their medical and technical issues will, as before, be transferred to American publishers who specialize works of that nature. The school and college text-books, with few exceptions, will, in future, be issued over their own imprint.

LONGMANS, GREEN & Co. have announced for immediate publication several theological books suitable for the Lenten season. Heading the list is "Law and Love: a Study of Psalm cxix," by Francis Leith Boyd, vicar of St. Paul's, Knightsbridge, England, with an introduction by the Bishop of London. It has been the custom of the Bishop of London to recommend some book to his diocese for Lenten reading each year. Last year the book selected, and which is still in great demand, was Holden's "The Holy Ghost, the Comforter." "Law and Love" is the book recommended this year. Of this he says in his introduction, "This is a strong book by a strong man on one of the strongest utterances in religious literature." A new installment of "Dogmatic Theology," by Dr. Francis J. Hall, of the Western Theological Seminary of Chicago, a new volume in the Oxford Library of Practical Theology, by the Rev. E. E. Holmes, on "Immortality," the Rev. James H. F. Peile's "Ecclesia Discens" are other important books of interest. This week they are publishing the Stone lectures for 1908-09 at the Princeton Theological Seminary, which were delivered by Dr. Bavinck, of the Free University of Amsterdam. The title of this volume is "The Philosophy of Revelation;" also, Anselm's "Theory of Atonement," being the Böhlen lectures for 1908, by the Rev. Dr. Foley, of the Philadelphia Divinity School.

TERMS OF ADVERTISING.

Under the heading "Books Wanted" book-trade subscribers, under their own names, are given the privilege of a free advertisement for books out of print of five nonpareil lines, exclusive of address, in any issue except special numbers to an extent not exceeding 100 lines a year. If more than five lines are sent the excess is at 10 cents a line, and amount should be inclosed. Bids for current books and such as may be easily had from the publishers, and repeated matter, as well as all advertisements from non-subscribers, or those advertising anonymously, must be paid for at the rate of 10 cents a line. All objectionable books will be excluded so far as they come under our notice.

Under the heading "Books for Sale," the charge to subscribers and non-subscribers is 10 cents a nonpareil line for each insertion. No reduction for repeated matter.

All other small undisplaced advertisements will be charged at the uniform rate of 10 cents a nonpareil line. Eight words may be reckoned to the line.

Parties with whom we have no account must pay in advance, otherwise no notice will be taken of their Communications.

BOOKS WANTED.

✍ In answering, please state edition, condition, and price, including postage or express charges.

Houses that are willing to deal exclusively on a cash-on-delivery basis will find it to their advantage to put after their firm-name the word [Cash.]

✍ Write your wants plainly, and on one side of the sheet only. Illegibly-written "wants" will be considered as not having been received. The "Publishers' Weekly" does not hold itself responsible for errors.

It should be understood that the appearance of advertisements in this column, or elsewhere in the "Publishers' Weekly," does not furnish a guarantee of credit. While it is endeavored to safeguard these columns by withdrawing the privilege of their use from advertisers who are not "good pay" book-sellers should take the usual precautions, as to advertisers not known to them, that they would take in making sales to any unknown parties.

An Opportunity: Will You Embrace It?

With the return of the Fleet on Washington's Birthday, interest in the Navy will be revived all over the land. Only one book tells the story of the cruise; according to the press of the country no book can supplant it.

With the Battle Fleet

By FRANKLIN MATTHEWS

There are only four civilians now with the Fleet. Mr. Matthews is one of them.

The book contains seven illustrations, four in color by HENRY REUTERDAHL, the marine artist and naval expert. Price, $1.50.

"FIGHTING BOB" EVANS says:

"It is one of the very best books ever written about the Navy and I hope it will find a place in every library in the United States. For giving the people a correct idea of their Navy it is invaluable."

THE DIAL says:

"He clothes the skeleton of more important events with the flesh and blood of humor and fancy, of human-nature study and portrayal, of bright conversation and vivid description. . . . All those who like sea-yarns, and probably some who are not especially fond of them, will enjoy this book."

A Bit of Interesting Information

When the first edition was ready, a case containing 450 copies was consigned to a ship of the Fleet. It was opened on the voyage from Colombo to Port Said, and in a day every copy was sold.

A third printing (5000 copies) is on press. It is expected that practically all of these will be consumed by the subscriptions now being taken on the Fleet, and by the sale at Hampton Roads. There are some copies of the second printing now waiting for wise booksellers.

The STANDARD DOMESTIC SCIENCE COOK-BOOK

The Only Real Cook Book

Mothers and Brides will want it because it points the way to correct house-keeping, Chefs and Caterers will want it as a correct guide to judicious buying, choice cooking and proper service. Invalids will want it because it gives appropriate recipes for the sick and convalescent. Schools teaching domestic science will want it because it gives the rules of household management, plain and fancy needlework, the art of crocheting, knitting, sewing, as well as the proper management of the laundry.

THE STANDARD DOMESTIC SCIENCE COOK BOOK, by WILLIAM H. LEE and JENNIE A. HANSEY, marks the world's advance in the culinary art. It covers the entire field. No art or science is more important to good health, happiness and the general welfare than the art of cooking and proper seasoning.

This Wonderful Book contains over 1400 recipes, 536 pages, 32 departments, 135 special drawings, 16 full-page color plates; bound in full leather, marbled edges, patent thumb index to departments. In a box (Gift Edition), $2.50

Beautiful washable Keratol Edition, red edges. 536 pages. 14 full-page pen drawings, two colored plates, patent thumb indexed, 1.50

Durable washable oil cloth, plain edges, illustrated. 536 pages. 1.00

POWERFUL ENDORSEMENTS

Cookery is a science and ought to be given more attention in the home. The individual needs of a family should be studied and food prepared for them according to their needs and the amount of physical exercise they undergo. You have realized this and in a clear and concise way have given a great deal of information that makes your cook book a valuable one. The way it is indexed and the arrangement also is very good.—Mrs. WM. W. GAAR, Pres. Associated Clubs of Domestic Science.

The art of housekeeping has advanced to a higher plane under the rule of domestic science, and the literature of the household has received a valuable addition to its practical books in the shape of THE STANDARD DOMESTIC SCIENCE COOK BOOK.—EVENTS.

A Book for General Use
and Special Occasions

One would think that the ingenuity of cook-book makers had long since been exhausted, but THE DOMESTIC SCIENCE COOK BOOK wins the prize for originality.—THE INTERIOR.

Complete copy and wonderful inducements to agents sent on receipt of price.

NOTICE CONCERNING

The American Catalog

To Booksellers and Librarians:

In order to complete existing files of the "American Catalog," it will be necessary to add the new volume covering 1905-1907, issued last summer. This latest supplement was made a three-year cumulation, instead of a five-year, owing to the great increase in book titles in recent times; and hereafter it is proposed to make all permanent supplements in three-year periods.

The new volume, like its predecessor, is an octavo in form and is bound in half morocco, the present price being $7.50. You can secure the fullest use of your file only by adding the latest volume to complete the set.

We are ready to send a copy on approval if you so desire.

N. B.—Subscribers who also want the Supplementary volume, 1905-06-07, containing the full Weekly Record material reprinted from THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY, one alphabet for each year, can have it in uniform binding, at $6.00 per copy.
